ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

When playback software for playing back a contents file is set up, a client ID inherent to each play back software is given and incorporated in the play back software when the contents file is down loaded to a terminal computer, the client ID is incorporated also in the contents file, and the play back of the contents file is permitted only when the client IDs of both of the play back software and the contents file agree with each other.